She printed a picture she downloaded and is pretending like she took it on vacation.

In this town, what street would he take to get home? What type of lie is this?

He didn't have time to finish his homework for writing class. He went online and downloaded an essay. The next day he turned it in and took credit for the essay.

Teach how to tell the difference between the six types of lies

Left It Out Lane

Half-Truth

Only telling the part of the truth that makes them look best, leaving out parts that may cause trouble.

There are two parts to a half-truth:

- 1) The true part of the story that makes the person look good, gets them what they want or gets someone to believe something.
- 2) The part of the story that could make the person look bad or gets them in trouble, is left out.

Half truths are told to get people to believe situations happened differently than they did.

A half truth is a whole lie.

Hi! I leave out parts of the story that do not make me look good.

I take Left It Out Lane to get home.

Left It Out Lane

The people on this street tell lies by leaving out parts of the story that make them look bad or get them in trouble. Leaving it out is just as bad as flat out lying about it.

His mom has to work late today and won't be there when he gets home from school. She tells him to ride his bike home, rode his bike home, like he promised, but when she asked about it, he left out the part where he stopped at the park and met up with some of his friends.
